The Department of Visualization at Texas A&M University in College Station, Texas, invites applications for a full-time non-tenure track position at the rank of Lecturer. The initial term of appointment is for the Fall 2018 through Spring 2019 academic year with the expectation of yearly re-appointment.

Responsibilities include teaching courses covering the foundations of studio art. The subjects include drawing, life drawing, two- and three-dimensional design, color theory, and painting. Candidates should be familiar with using and teaching a variety of media and free-hand techniques. These courses primarily serve undergraduate majors in the Bachelor of Science in Visualization program and the Minor in Art.

Applicants should hold a Master of Fine Arts in Studio Art degree or the equivalent, with previous undergraduate teaching experience at the college level. Candidates near completion of their degree who have teaching experience will also be considered. However, the MFA must be complete prior to beginning the position. The department is especially interested in individuals who have experience with diverse populations who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community at TAMU through their research, teaching, and/or service. Candidates from under-represented groups are strongly encouraged to apply. Salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Application Deadline is May 4, 2018, or until the position is filled. Send electronic letter of application, curriculum vitae and the names and contact information of three references to email: search@viz.tamu.edu.

The Department of Visualization offers a unique collegial environment with a faculty composed of historians, traditional and new media artists, designers, computer scientists, and psychologists. For questions, email search@viz.tamu.edu.
